IN ADRIATIC BELGRADE (UPI)-A new series of earth tremors today struck Yugoslavia's Adriatic Sea coast resort area, already heavily damaged by earth-quakes Fhursday and Sunday. Reports from officials in the stricken area put the death toll at four since Sunday, with 25 persons injured.

The official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said nine new tremors of "medium intensity" were reported between noon Thursday and this morning. It called Thursday's series of quakes at the coast resort city of Makarska in Dalmatia province "catastrophic." Reports said most of Mak-arska's 4,000 inhabitants have left the city and only 200 of-

A Plea for Pony Express

THE CANADIAN HOUSEWIFE will hardly notice a fractional rise in the cost of living, as recorded for the month ending last November. But the index is now at an all-time high of 129.8, and the value of money has fallen by almost 30 per cent since 1949. More significantly, the trend of prices is still

But why should this surprise anyone? When the Canadian dolanyone? When the Canadian dol-lar was deliberately, and no doubt devalued last summer the cost of all the nation's huge imports was automatically increased. That cost, for finished goods and raw materials, must finally work its way through the economy to the retail store. A devalued currency in any nation must be a currency that buys less goods.

At the same time the govern-ment, unable to borrow out of the existing supply enough money to pay all its bills, has been creating new money. It has been inflating the currency on a large scale-more than a billion dollars in the last year.

If Canada's whole industrial capacity and labor force were fully employed the monetary inflation already undertaken undoubtedly would have affected retail prices

An industry which finds such costs as wages rising, with no proportionate gain in its productivity, will raise prices if it can. This may be impossible in a period of recession and maximum competition. It will be easier once the economy is more prosperous.

The Centennial Year is upon us, and it occurs to me that a lot of our own residents are not aware of the fact. By the same token, it is not very likely that outsiders are aware of it either.

Since suggestions of things to do come so hard to the heads of our citizenry, let us try getting suggestions of things not to do.

Let us not:

Pursuit of Peace

Can anyone honestly and truly be-lieve that war will be ultimately cleansed from the face of the earth?

Certainly global war may be arrested by the present thermo-nuclear impasse, but this is only while the nuclear club remains limited in scope.

Any increased membership serves one purpose: To atrophy this precarious peace, speeding the eventual day of reckoning. Conversely, even without the nuclear bogey would the world achieve any positive security? To pre-sume so would be overly optimistic.

It cannot be over-emphasized that man, almost from his very earthly be-ginning, and motivated by self-preservation, greed, lust for power and laterally, ideological fanaticism, has sought the diabolical destruction or subjugation of his fellow beings. Paradoxically, while these evil forces were at work other humane elements worked untiringly for life's prolongation and perpetuity. But unfortunately the destroyers of life always seemed to be about 10 steps ahead of those who were bound to preserve it. And so it appears it will always be thus.

Notwithstanding all these implications of doom and gloom, however, negotiations for peace constitute a must. Humanity requires something concrete to cling to—a lifebelt as it were. And hope is the very foundation of existence. Without hope we can all perish, mentally and physically, to be sucked down into oozing quicksands of shattered spirits and quiet despair.

No. We must never abandon the pursuit of lasting peace, for if we do. only then are we FRANK E. LOCKYER.

the United States depended on its new one-ocean navy to meet Germany in the Atlantic (in case of British neutrality) or Japan in the Pacific.

An-American canal under American control against all comers became more imperative than ever as a waterway through which to pass the navy from one ocean to the other as circumstances might require. No one at the turn of the century, not even Alfred Thaher Mahan, dreamed of a simultaneous two-ocean war.

Professor Bemis believes that American diplomacy set a good record in meeting the changes which slowly brought the United States to the leadership of the free world, though he freely acknowledges that many blunders marred that record. What has been the quality of American diplomacy and national policy since 1945? Here he is more critical.

Vital Question

Whether America's new alliances marshal united power at home and abroad and morale sufficient to stop the w aggressors is "indeed a vital ques-

Whether by these commitments the nited States has overextended its military power beyond the capacity of its allies and itself to deploy on exterior lines to all the danger spots is a ques-tion that can only be answered by mili-tary authorities. But Professor Bemis left no doubt of his own skepticism.

Would not history since ancient times, he asked, lead its votaries to ques-tion whether money, however massively and generously bestowed, can be a suband generously bestowed, can be a sub-stitute for foresight and valor and sacri-fice, either in the giver or the receiver? Does not a policy of containment by its very nature yield the initiative to the revolutionary aggressors? Nor has it in fact contained the aggressor.

Professor Bemis pronounced the sombre judgment that "time has been on the side of the Communists." They have crushed Hungary with impunity.
They have pushed into Laos despite The Congo.

They have leaped the Atlantic over OAS to establish another Communist front in Cuba, a fourth front for the United States to defend at its very door step. In Eastern Asia the open door has closed. In the Western Hemisphere is the Monroe doctrine dead, as Mr Khrushchev said?

To this formidable indictment Mr Rusk attempted a reasoned and responsible reply. It was a brave effort, but his defence will be forgotten long after the remarks of Professor Bemis continue to kindle controversy and com-don, have been discussing the decline of the Christmas pantomime in Britain and writing with sentiment about better days.

Pantomimes—Not Dead, But ...

Only one major show ran last Christmas, All stages but the Paliadium, it appears, were occupied by plays too successful to close for the seasonal fantasy,

In Victoria, they tell me, the pantomime still runs-two of them last

My experience with the medium has been restricted solely to that of a spectator As a kid I enjoyed Reg Hincks's produc tions, with Eva Hart, now Mrs. Gillan, and the show George Robey brought out to the Royal Victoria in my youth.

Apart from that, the closest I've come to pantomimes was the postwar production a water ballet thing at the Crystal

I take a retrospective pride in the water show. Archie, Jack Todd, Rita Norbery, Jeannie Mills, Bob Johnstone, Marg Naismith and a lot of other people worked hard to produce it and the general effect-tinged rosily by time—was spectacular. We lath frames swimming in the pool had a magnificent rainbow curtain at one made by colored lights gleaming through thin jets of water from a per-forated pipe. We had a conch shell barge carrying a small Prince Charming and a diminutive fairy. We had a couple of good diving turns worked into the theme and very fancy swimming by the Aquanymphs, Several of our comedy routines were good and we had pulchritude plus in the cast. My job was to louse up the work on the microphone. The whole show was the product not of blood, but plenty of toil, tears and sweat. I think of it fondly—not for its success but for the magnificent mis-

We had secreted a couple of electricians way up in the Garden rafters to handle the spotlights and we had neglected to drill someone on the switchbox which was lo-cated in the men's washroom. Next to my microphone I had a house telephone over

At the end of the first scene I called for the lights to be dimmed out. They were. Then I called to the boys in the rafters to bring up the spots. Nothing happened.
"Spotlights," I screamed into the mike

And down from the heavens came a large, coarse voice shouting, "Some fool pulled the master switch. We ain't got no lights." But we got 'em on again in time to pick up a jolly little sequence in which a pienic party was to climb into a rowboat, start off on a family outing and have Poppa simulate a duck-shooting scene on the way. We'd tied a bunch of decoys to the rafters and when the gun went off, the ducks were to be dropped into the water. It looked good on paper.

In execution, somebody stepped on Jack

Todd's prize shotgun and broke the stock But the show went on and the gun went off. The ducks stayed anchored to the rafters.

They fell, for no reason at all, three acts later, in the middle of a water ballet.

Then Ken Hurn was going to do a fire-dive, plunging through flames on the pool surface. He had rigged up a floating hoop, filled it gently with an inflammable fluid and stood ready matches in hand.

I announced "The fire-dive" with all the ama I could give it. Ken started throw nothing happened.

On the second performance he got a better fluid. His first match ignited it with a wonderful explosion and he dived through the hoop, spilling flame all over the tank. It took us 10 minutes to put it out, So we staggered through the program with a "Flying Saucer" act in which a boy was to zoom half the length of the pool suspended from a hidden wire. The wire broke and he landed two feet out from his take-off point.

We closed with the whole cast swimming the pool behind the swan-drawn conch carrying its Prince Charming and Everything went well until the swim-inside the swans, without adequate peepholes, proceeded majestically into the water curtain and Prince Charming, a very small Todd, started yelling to Margaret in the stands, "Mommy. I'm getting all wet." So we pulled the master switch again. Pantomimes and such, I love 'em

Something you'll like especially about

The Young Ones is how much of London it brings in.

Perhaps the fact that Torontonian Sid Furie is only 28 helped him to get across the spirited youthfulness that stands out. This is his first crack at directing a big-budget film and he has done such a rattling good job of it that from here on in he's made.

He came to England two years ago and had been getting added experience making horror films and other program-fillers. When Associated-British were planning The Young Ones they remembered his work on The Dangerous Age and took the gamble on his being able to turn out a good musical.

Does a Snake Have a Sense of Smell?

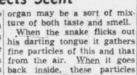

Many people shudder at snakes for two reasons. Some of them are dangerous and all of them are strange, mystericous creatures. It is true that 36 of our 250 native snakes have poisonous fangs and wishould all learn to recognize and avoid them. But the strange mysteries of the snake make him different from all other animals and there fore interesting. We share our world and some of our problems with him, but his ways of coping with life are very different from ours. We have eyes and ears.

They are very different from ours, but they are just right for him.

The glassy eyes of Mr. Snake see close objects very clearly. It does not matter to

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK-The fight racket disgusts Billy Conn, who made famous and wealthy by it.

"The way it is now," he said, "it should be abolished How can a man fight for the championship of the world after 15 pro fights? They're so bad, I don't watch them any more even for nothing on television."

The unskilled pugs offend his sense of style.

"I like Sonny Liston," said Conn, who is a partner in the Cargo Candy Co. "He can fight. I know a lot of guys don't think he can, but he's a cinch to beat Patterson. He's slow but he's too big and strong for Patterson. Why don't They give Liston a chance? A prize fighter isn't an altar boy. It's a tough business. It was always a business for tough guys.

They were all hoodlums when I came around. The fighters were hoodlums. The managers were hoodlums. Hoodlums managed the managers. That's the way it's got to be if fighters are going to be any good.

"The fighter should be a tough guy. They prove it, don't they? I don't get these tough guys muscle in on fighters. No one ever muscled in on me. I had one manager . . . Johnny Ray. A tough guy comes to a fighter and says I'm your partner. The fighter should tell him he's in business for himself. If a fighter had any guts, he couldn't be muscled."

Only Ray Robinson and Archie Moore incite his curi-

"I watch them fight," he said. "They know how to Fight. They know what to do, You see those other creeps. They're amateurs.

"Patterson's good and game, but he can't take it too good But that, not his fault. He always gets up. Outside of that, Patterson is all amateur. That leaping stuff of his. How can he get away with it? Jumping at a guy.

"What're they going to do about it? It's so bad, no one knows what to do to make it good again.

"You know the best punch of the year? The one Marlon Brando's wife hit him. Maybe, it will just peter out.

mean, the fighters are so bad, it will just stop.

"You take that Moore. He's a real pro. He knows all the tricks. But the main thing, he's colorful. I've tried to sit around with some of the fighters they got now. I blow as fast as I can. They re about as colorful as a lot of dead

You Learn by Boxing Good Guys

The heavyweight contenders are an affront to Conn's collection of his time when his insolently quick techniques

"Take Tony Galento," he said. "What was he? Nothing Just tough. Right now, a guy like Galento might be heavyweight champion of the world. Lee Savold, Bob Pastor. They were never much. But who around could the them now? Take Gene Fullmer . . . the midleweight champion. Just stick a left hand in his face and you couldn't miss him. I love what they write about him being so strong. Strong guys are wrestlers, not fighters. Strong

In the age of television, most pugs hold jobs in the day-

"Are they kidding?" Conn said. "You got to learn. You learn off good guys, boxing them in the gym. I was a little skinny kid and I boxed with Mickey Walker. I gave him a black eye. He wasn't trying to hurt me. But there's no one ground for these guys to learn from around for these guys to learn from.

."Take Fritzie Zivic. He'd fix you in a gym. You'd box with him and he'd half kill you. But you'd learn. I caught aim in a gym and fixed him. I was the light-heavyweight champion and I heard Fritzie was short. I put up $300 in front, a hundred a round, if he'd box with me in the gym.

I told him I'd take it easy.

I told him I'd take it easy.

"I fixed him the way he fixed me when I was a kid. I wanted to get even for what he did. But Zivic did me a favor. Once you learned something from a guy like that, you had it forever. You never lost it. You can't have a job and be a fighter at the same time. You got to be a fighter all day and all night.

"That Tom McNeeley who fought Patterson. He ought to get a job off that rich guy who manages him and quit. I tell you McNeeley's the world's worst. But what do you expect? McNeeley is an amateur and his manager is an amateur. An amateur manager is going to have an amateur fighter.

There were 35 good fighters in every class when I was fighting. What do you think Fred Apostoli would do to Fullmer? It'd be a joke. I made a mistake and I got busted up. I made a few with Apostoli and he put me in the hospital for five days. I won that fight, too.

"The funny thing, fighting's the best sport in the world when you got two good fighters in there. I love it. But where are you going to get good fighters? Where are they? I haven't seen any?"

THROAT SPRAY 37 PER CENT ALCOHOL

TORONTO (CP)-An In paired-driving conviction was quashed Thursday when the driver established that the throat spray he used pro-duces a high breathalyzer

Joseph Jedraski, 32, a Tor onto dance-hall owner, had been fined $100 or 14 days.

However, in Thursday's appeal before Judge Bruce MacDonald, police constable testified that in a test set up by defence counsel Norman Scott he had squirted some of the throat spray into his mouth.

When the constable breathed into the breathalyz-er immediately afterward, he got a count of 6.0—the high-est the machine could regis-ter. The officer said the spray proved to be 37 per cent alcohol.

The judge accepted Jedraski's argument that he had merely used the spray to clear his head.

Man's Effort To Reform Eases Penalty

A man with an "extremely bad record," who has lived and worked as a good citizen for the past 18 months, was given a light sentence in Saanich police court Thursday for a "stupid" offence.

Richard Albert Brooks, 2745 Quadra, was sentenced to seven days and fined $100 after he pleaded guilty to steal-ing groceries from the Safeway Store at the Town 'n' Country shopping plaza. Court was told at an earlier hearing that Brooks had filled a push-cart with groceries and tried to wheel it outside with out paying for them

The reason is, I was all set to promote, as a Silent (Shh!) Sentennial project a flower-blooming-watching contest. (Not to be confused with a blooming flower-watching

In the contest I had in mind, participants would each choose a flower to watch, and would watch it (silently, of course) until it came into bloom.

The first contestant who considered his chosen flower to be in bloom would raise his right hand (quietly), thus attracting the attention of the judge, and if the flower were found to be actually in bloom, the contestant would be awarded a suitable prize.

Now, M. A. Atkins, you have posed the problem of noisy seed pods bursting on broom bushes, a horticultural horror which would defeat the whole idea of a Silent (Shh!) flower-blooming-watching contest. However, I am working on this, and have asked the re-search division of Canadian General Electric to devise a

For Delicious New Dishes Try Packaged Wild Rice By PENNY SAVER

Ever taste wild rice? Those who have will probably agree with me that it's a real treat and those who haven't really should try it. They'll love it.

Why am I raving? Well, wild rice is quite scarce and until recently was not available on shelves of retail stores. Grown only in areas around Manitoba and Ontario it is harvested by Indians, from fresh water lakes.

Basic preparation for eating is as follows: One cup of wild rice, one and one-half cups cold water, one scant teams and the store of spoon salt, one large teaspoon butter and one-quarter tea-spoon black pepper. Rinse in three changes of cold water, bake in casserole in preheated oven for one hour. Rice is bake in casserole in preheated oven for one hour. Rice is ready to serve. There are many dishes in which the rice can be used: Package I saw had a recipe booklet enclosed. This delicacy is priced at 12 ounces for $1.95.

Have you tried the new instant beef drink? It's delicious! Can be served as a hot beverage, used to add flavor and zest to gravies, stews and other meat dishes, packed in lunch boxes, in a, hot hermos, or used for a base for homemade soups.

It you are dieting this is a nourishing drink made to order.

It's low in calories, a six fluid-ounce serving contains only 23 of 'em. And it's only 65 cents for a six-ounce, 25-serving far. Interested? Why not give me a call right away and I'll tell you where I found these items.

and king of clubs in the hope that I would drop a doubleton queen. Instead, West showed out on the second club lead and I only made four-odd. Everyone else made an overtrick and my play severely. Should I have played safe for five-odd by leading a low club to-ward my jack after taking dummy's ace?" The answer to his question is that his play of the ace and king of clubs was correct. It would gain a trick for him if either opponent held queen-small in clubs. It would break even if after the suit failed to break. East would take queen and lead a diamond to West. West would lea third diamond and South would ruff and a small club in dummy. East would either have to chuck his last club or unguard the queen-jack of spaces and South would make his overtrick anyway.

 GOLD CREST FUNERAL PLAN NOW GUARANTEES $300 TO $3,000 WITH FIRST SMALL PAYMENT

The popular plan to protect survivors in every family from the inevitable costs of final illness and funeral expenses has been receiving almost universal acceptance as the very sensible way to provide for these obligations which are the responsibility of every person.

 AVAILABLE TO 90 YEARS OF AGE. GOOD ANYWHERE IN THE WORLD

Important feature of the plan is that when first payment is made the full amount of the plan is provided immediately on funeral day and cannot be taken away by financial reverses or debts. It is good anywhere in the world with any funeral director. The plan is underwritten by the Seaboard Life Insurance Company and has the approval of leading funeral directors.

 EVERY FAMILY URGED TO GET FULL DETAILS WITHOUT DELAY

Because it is so unfair and unwise to leave funeral expenses (which every person faces) to loved ones, truly considerate people realize the right time is right NOW. Tomorrow may be too late. Full details are offered by mailing the coupon today.

NEW TREMORS ROCK AREA IN ADRIATIC

BELGRADE (UPI)-A nev series of earth tremors today struck Yugoslavia's Adriatic Sea coast resort area, already heavily damaged by earth-quakes Thursday and Sunday.

Reports from officials in the stricken area put the death toll at four since Sunday, with 25 persons injured.

The official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said nine new tremors of "medium intensity" were reported between noon Thursday and this morning. It called Thursday's series of quakes at the coast resort city of Makarska in Dalmatia province "catastrophic." Reports said most of Mak-arska's 4,000 inhabitants have

WASHINGTON (AP) President Kennedy will ask Congress next week for money to start developing a new mid-range ballistic mis-sile that could be fired from trucks, railroad cars or bases, informed sources said today. The mobile missile would be intended for use by North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Europe.

Pentagon planners also are it overseas with American forces.

Sources said the new solid fuel missile would be designed for a range comparable to that of the 1,500-mile Thor and Jupiter, early liquid fuel intermediate range ballistic missiles which the U.S. has furnished to Britain and Italy DOOR WIDE OPEN in limited numbers.

Just as I was about convinced our Very Own campaign dust as I was about convinced our very own campaign for a silent centennial was going along like tamefire (after all, even Prince Philip has agreed to fail to attend), along comes a letter from a loyal Constituent who is plagued by grave doubts.

The first contestant who considered his chosen flower to be in bloom would raise his right hand (quietly), thus attracting the attention of the judge, and if the flower were found to be actually in bloom, the contestant would be awarded a suitable prize.

Now, M. A. Atkins, you have posed the problem of noisy seed pods bursting on broom bushes, a horticultural horror which would defeat the whole idea of a Silent (Shh!) flower-blooming-watching contest.

However, I am working on this, and have asked the research division of Canadian General Electric to devise a

I am not so sure about the litter problem, M. A. Atkins, Bargaining Loss Through Takeover?

A mounting protest faced the B.C. government to-day from trade unions who fear loss of bargaining rights because of the B.C. Electric takeover. The unions are seeking a meeting with Premier Bennett to press their case. They saw Labor Minister Leslie Peterson Monday. He promised to consider their protest, and discuss it with the Meanwhile, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan and Liberal Leader Ray Perrault joined the battle, calling for government recognition of union rights for all employees.

President Kennedy will ask Congress next week for money to start developing a new mid-range ballistic missile that could be fired from trucks, railroad cars or bases, informed sources said today.

The mobile missile would be intended for use by No.th Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Europe.

Pentagon planners also are thinking of the possibilities of manning it overseas with

Sources said the new solid fuel missile would be designed for a range comparable to that of the 1,500-mile Thor and Jupiter, early liquid fuel intermediate range ballistic DOOR WIDE OPEN missiles which the U.S. has furnished to Britain and Italy
